

Communicating With Consciousness

We are all connected with consciousness via our brain through a WIFI like system. We communicate with consciousness via our feelings, DMT, questions and imagery.

DMT Imagery

DMT

DMT has a dual purpose in that in small doses it enhances performance and in larger doses it becomes a learning tool of consciousness. There are two sources of DMT, internal and external of the body.

Imagery

Ultimately we live in a visual universe and imagery plays a big part in the emotions and ultimately the feelings that we create and project into consciousness. And the feelings we create through the imagery gets projected back into our reality.

Questions Feelings

Questions

Asking questions has a triple role in that they help to get answers plus questions take you on a journey of personal development and growth and also opens one up to new information.

Feelings

Our emotions create our feelings in which there are two, Love and Fear. Things done through love will create a whole that is greater than the sum of its parts and projects a positive reflection back into our reality.

Consciousness acts as a reflector; therefore our reality is a reflection of our thought processes on both an individual and a collective level
