

Consciousness

What is Consciousness? Consciousness is a creative force

Even though consciousness is a creative force and we can see the forms that it takes on this world, at its source we don't really know what consciousness consists of, is it a frequency, a light or an energy, who knows?

What are we? We humans are a physical manifestation of consciousness in a biological form that exist in a three dimensional reality

There are other biological forms of consciousness on this planet such as birds, plants, trees, bacteria and viruses. The biological form is only one expression of consciousness; there are also minerals forms of consciousness such as rocks, mountains and crystals to name few

Why are we here? We are here to remember and realise that we are consciousness and to also go on a journey of personal growth and development

We are one of the few beings in this reality that has the capacity to be aware of consciousness

How do we communicate with Consciousness? We communicate with consciousness through our feelings, DMT, the asking of questions and imagery

Our emotions create our feelings of which there are only two, Love and Fear. DMT is used as a learning and performance enhancing tool. The asking of questions reveals answers, but also takes one on a journey and what we tend to visualise, gets projected back into our reality

Why learn about Consciousness?

Learning about consciousness and your role with it and how you communicate with consciousness gives you your power back and it also stops the unseen manipulation of your emotional state

The more people learn and understand about consciousness and our role with it, the more peace and harmony will come to this world
